

Course code	IBSRDL634
Course name	Social Responsibility Awareness (OSHA)
Duration	30 Minutes
Target group	Oil & Gas Industry
Prerequisites	No prerequisites are required to sit this course.
Objective	LO1: Explain employee's safe work practice responsibilities LO2: Describe the importance of a positive attitude, good communication and respect LO3: Identify different types of harassment and discrimination and how to respond LO4: Explain an employee's environmental practices responsibilities LO5: Explain hazard communication LO6: Describe the risks associated with substance abuse LO7: Identify examples of good sanitary practices
Contents	The Occupational Safety and Health Administration is an agency of the United States Department of Labour. In this course you will learn about social responsibility and awareness, including safe work practice responsibilities and the importance of positive attitude, good communication and respect. You will be able to identify different types of harassment and discrimination and practical steps for responding. You will be able to explain hazard communication and the risks associated with substance abuse. You will also be able to identify examples of good sanitary practice.
Exam	The assessment is taken during the course and is within the expected duration.