

Course code	IBSRDL601
Course name	Access to Medical Records (OSHA)
Duration	20 Minutes
Target group	Oil & Gas Industry
Prerequisites	No prerequisites are required to sit this course.
Objective	LO1: Describe different categories of health hazards LO2: Identify which hazards and employees may be monitored by a Medical Surveillance Program LO3: Explain how to request medical records and how access will be provided LO4: Identify which documents are exempt from disclosure LO5: Describe an employer's responsibilities regarding medical records
Contents	The Occupational Safety and Health Administration is an agency of the United States Department of Labour. 29 CFR 1910.1020 In this course you will learn about the different categories of health hazards and which hazards may be monitored by a Medical Surveillance Program. You will be able to explain how to request medical records and identify which documents are exempt from disclosure. You will also describe an employer's responsibilities regarding medical records.
Exam	The assessment is taken during the course and is within the expected duration.